The innovation event: Unlocking your organisation's creative potential

Explore innovation techniques with:

Being innovative enables organisations to do more with less, to be more efficient and more effective. But how do you generate new ideas and put them into practice?

Innovation Action Training

11-12 February 2010,
NCVO, London

Innovation can improve an organisation's effectiveness and provide a competitive edge where resources are finite. Led by industry experts, these two individual days of intensive, interactive training look at new methods of ideas generation and will give you the practical skills to make your organisation truly innovative.

Programme

11 February 2010

- Diagnostics: How innovative is your organisation and where could you make changes?
- Learn how to make more of your users, participate in an interactive challenge, pitch solutions

12 February 2010

- Service innovation – Inspiration and learning from other sectors
- Crowd sourcing and how to set up your own innovation network

- Fees start at £180 for a single day or £288 for both days and include:
